

U DX407 Memoir. "The Emergence of an Econometrician" by Tony Lancaster 2019

Accession number: 2021/04

Biographical Background: Tony Lancaster was born in Eccles on 25 June 1938. He graduated from the University of Liverpool with a BA in Economics, and a PhD from the University of Cambridge. He subsequently worked for the Economic Research Institute in Dublin and the University of Birmingham and had short appointments in the USA and Thailand, before being appointed to the Chair in Econometrics at the University of Hull in 1973. In February 1987 he moved to Providence, Rhode Island, to take up a post at Brown University. He was a respected econometrician throughout his career. He retired from Brown in the 2000s and continued to pursue his own interests.

Tony Lancaster was married twice, first to Carol, with whom he had a daughter Clare; and secondly to Jane, with whom he had two sons, Tom and Rob.

For an obituary see <https://economics.brown.edu/news/2022-12-19/memoriam-tony-lancaster-1938-2022>

Custodial history: Donated by the author

Description: Printed copy of memoir by Tony Lancaster, a former member of staff of the University of Hull, covering his life.

Extent: 1 item

Access conditions: Access will be granted to any accredited reader

Copyright: Copyright is owned by Tony Lancaster

Language: English

| | | |
|-----------|--|------|
| U DX407/1 | Memoir: "The Emergence of an Econometrician" by Tony Lancaster Printed memoir, dated "2000 (this version 2019)". The memoir was primarily written for his family and is concerned more with his education, early life and personal life than his professional career. It ends in 1987. 1 item | 2019 |
|-----------|--|------|