U SUH/1	Torch, Torchlight and Hullfire Student Newspapers This collection contains copies of the Torch, Torchlight and Hullfire magazines. Torch was the newspaper of the Students Union of the University College of Hull and was produced from 1928 to 1958. Between 1959 and 1974 the Torch continued as an Arts Magazine. Torchlight, the newspaper of the University of Hull, ran from 1956 to 1972 and then again in 1974 shortly before being replaced by Hullfire, newspaper of the University of Hull's Student Union, which is still being produced. During Torchlight's break between 1972 and 1973 a newspaper called Joynt was published in conjunction with other Higher Education institutions in Hull, see U SUH/3. 7 boxes and 23 volumes	1931-2012

Joynt Newspaper

1972-1973

The student newspaper Joynt ran from 1972 to 1974, during which time some 6 issues were published. Joynt was produced by the University of Hull Students' Union in conjunction with other Higher Education organisations in Hull including Hull College of Education, Endsleigh College and Hull Technical College. It was the brainchild of Dave Wallis, who had previously worked on the University students' newspaper Torchlight. The idea was to bring students across Hull closer together, to address common issues and to advertise activities at each establishment. The paper also ran an entertainment section and some political articles including one on the apartheid system in South Africa. Joynt's editor was Dave Wallis and the Assistant Editor was Mardon Poole.

It is unclear why Joynt ceased production, although it may have been due to factional differences within the University Students' Union over whether to withdraw from the National Union of Students and consequently the energy to keep the project alive disappeared. The October 22nd 1974 issue of Torchlight announces that Joynt is dead and that Torchlight has been reborn.
