

C DFTF Documents relating to the Terry family, Hull 1743-1866

Accession number: 18/21

Historical Background: Richard Terry (c. 1740-1804) was a Hull shipowner who married Ann[e] Avison in the autumn of 1767. Ann's father was William Avison, organist at Holy Trinity, Hull (1720-1751) and her Uncle, Charles Avison, was organist of Newcastle Cathedral and a well known composer (1709-1770). One of Richard and Anne's sons was Avison Terry who served Hull twice as Mayor (1827 & 1829) and once as Sheriff (1813). He was also responsible for raising public subscription for the building of St. John's Church, Newland. Avison Terry had two brothers, John, who was in the family business and Edward, who joined the East India Company and ran up massive debts which his father had to pay off when he was killed in a shipwreck in the China Sea.

Custodial history: These records were deposited with Hull City Archives at the Hull History Centre in Sep 2018 by Mr Michael Leonard-Williams of Plymouth, Devon and his co depositors; Mr John Scott & Mrs Lucy Shields. All are descendants of Avison Terry. Mr Leonard-Williams has transcribed most of the letters in C DFTF/1-6 (C SRL/T/46) and is keen that they can be accessed by anyone interested in studying the development of the church in Hull and the rest of Yorkshire as well as the Evangelical movement during the 18th and 19th centuries. The collection could also be useful in telling us more about merchant family relationships in Hull as well as helping to shed light on the many battles for social reform and philanthropic causes that took place during this time, including William Wilberforce's campaign to end slavery.

Description: Mostly correspondence between the Terry family and various recipients.

Rev. James Stillingfleet [1741-1826] attended Oxford University and became a Master of Arts and fellow of Merton College. He was ordained as a deacon in 1764 and as a priest in 1766, both by the Bishop of Worcester. He became rector of Hotham in 1771, where he remained for nearly 56 years until his death. The Reverend James Stillingfleet was a noted evangelical and, during his tenure at Hotham, Wesley visited and preached twice (1788 and 1790). On both occasions he stayed at the rectory. One of James' closest friends was the Rev. Joseph Milner headmaster of Hull Grammar School and a prominent evangelical and historian. The Terry and Stillingfleet families were very active in the religious development of the Hull area. Avison Terry was responsible for the building of St John's Church, Newland. The Church was consecrated by the Archbishop of York on 23 Sep 1833. The cost of the building was nearly £1,110 and was raised by public subscription. A full description St John's Newland can be found in Sheahan's History of Hull p.540.

C DFTF/1/56	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet. Will send a fuchsia and asks for weeping willow cuttings. Asked about 'Brother Herbert' (?) Mr. Dikes benefited from Bridlington – he is now a 'tender plant' and Avison Terry must now nurse him in Hull as an 'exotic'. 1 item	16 Nov 1826
C DFTF/1/57	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet. Thanks for willow cuttings for Mr. Peters at the Hall – so high & arbitrary, has not returned thanks. Requests Periwinkles 1 item	25 Nov 1826
C DFTF/1/58	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet. His father died 9pm last evening - 'a most easy & gentle dismissal'. Asked Avison Terry to have brass coffin-plate engraved and sent. [James Stillingfleet died 19 Dec 1826, aged 85, having been rector of Hotham for nearly 56 years. He was buried on 27 Dec 1826.] 1 item	20 Dec 1826
C DFTF/1/59	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet. Asked Avison Terry not to attend funeral. His Father's wishes for a simple affair with very few attending. Detailed description of his Father's passing and his last words seeing a 'little child' which Edward William Stillingfleet thinks may have been the spirit of one of his siblings who died as a child. Describes kind attention of family friends. Brass plate for coffin has arrived. 1 item	22 Dec 1826
C DFTF/1/60	Letter to Avison Terry from Cordelia Stillingfleet, Edward William Stillingfleet's wife. Written the day after James Stillingfleet's funeral asking Avison Terry whether Mr. Dikes could preach a sermon following James Stillingfleet's death. Leaves it to Avison Terry's discretion whether to ask him because of Mr. Dikes' present state of health. [Parts of letter very difficult to read due to fading.] 1 item	28 Dec 1826
C DFTF/1/61	Letter to Mr Terry from Edward Stillingfleet. Avison Terry had not been well but is recovering. Edward William Stillingfleet was most anxious that the Terrys' come and stay at Hotham when he is feeling up to it. They now can accommodate their daughter as well. 1 item	25 Nov 1827

C DFTF/1/62	Correspondents unknown. Letter concerning Mr. J. Jarratt' s forthcoming appointment to North Cave. Details of complex local intrigues – women [Mrs. Burton, etc.] involved in getting vacancies filled. [It would appear that Edward William Stillingfleet is now looking after the parishes of Hotham and South Cave and will not be able to help out much at North Cave]. 1 item	16 Jun 1830
C DFTF/1/63	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet. Edwards mother, Elizabeth, had died this morning. Asked Avison Terry to order copper coffin plate. Uncertain what best material to use. It will be strictly a private funeral, hopefully on Saturday. 1 item	12 Mar 1832
C DFTF/1/64	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet. Thanking Avison Terry for 'kind & feeling letter' regarding his mother's death. Emphasises funeral will be strictly private with no friends there. Will not be sending 'gloves to the ladies'. Thanks for arranging coffin plate. Miss Terry has recovered. 1 item	14 Mar 1832
C DFTF/1/65	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet. Thanks for the roasting pig. J. Jarratt is absent from his parish too often. Much discussion about Terrys visiting or vice-versa. 1 item	23 Mar 1833
C DFTF/1/66	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet on mourning paper: Edward's wife, Cordelia, has died. Thanks for sympathy 'in the midst of your own sorrows' [Terry's wife had died in 1836.] It will be a private funeral tomorrow. Thanking for offer of help but William Ewbank's family would be staying. 1 item	20 Nov 1837
C DFTF/1/67	Letter to Avison Terry from Edward Stillingfleet on mourning paper (for George Ewbank's eldest daughter.). Apologised for not getting over when John Terry died. Worried about the cold weather. Had been in London sorting the problems bequeathed by H. Ewbank. Wanted to pay a visit to Newland soon. Assumes Terry had paid his Sun Fire Insurance premium and requests a receipt. 1 item	5 Jul 1860

C DFTF/2 Correspondence between Ann Avison and various members of the Dale and Collinson families Oct 1766-Feb 1793
1 bundle, 38 items

Ann[e] Avison married Hull ship-owner Richard Terry in 1767. Ann's father was William Avison, organist at Holy Trinity, Hull (1720-1751) and her Uncle, Charles Avison, was organist of Newcastle Cathedral and a well known composer (1709-1770). Both John and Charles Wesley were friendly with the wider Avison family, particularly the Dales and Collinsons. The Dales were intermarried with the Avisons in Newcastle. Mary Dale married Mr Collinson, a hat manufacturer in Manchester and a staunch Methodist. John Wesley appreciated reading Charles Avison's book 'An Essay on Musical Expression', published in 1752 and called Avison 'a thorough master of the subject.' Amongst this bundle of letters are some from the Avison family urging Ann not to marry Richard Terry. Ann's marriage to Richard was controversial. Mary Dale, the daughter of a Yorkshire clergyman and a huge fan of John Wesley, strongly criticises Richard's religious inclinations and advises Ann not to marry him. There is a large amount of correspondence between John Wesley and Mary Dale in the Wesley archives. Margaret Dale, Mary's sister, married Edward Avison, son of Charles.

C DFTF/2/1 Letter to Ann Avison from Mary Dale relating to 3 Oct 1766 religious sentiments and advice, seemingly sympathising with Ann's current relationship. [The Dales were intermarried with the Avisons in Newcastle so Ann and Mary were probably cousins].

C DFTF/2/5	Letter to Ann Avison from Mary Dale. A letter laced with religious reasoning urging Ann Avison not to marry Richard Terry or even converse with him. She makes the case that only single women can be true followers of the Lord. She recommends Mr Wesley's pamphlet on "Thoughts on a single life" [Ann was about 24 years old at this time]. 1 item	12 Apr 1767
C DFTF/2/6	Letter to Ann Avison from Mary Dale. Still trying to convince Ann Avison [she calls her "Nanny"] to break off the affair with Mr Terry. Mr Wesley is staying with them for a week. Mary Dale is going to stay with Mama. 1 item	14 Aug 1767
C DFTF/2/7	Letter to Ann Avison from Margaret Dale. Much religious exhortation. She is worried about Ann Avison's predicament [presumably her on-going connection with Mr Terry]. 1 item	21 Oct 1767
C DFTF/2/8	Letter to Ann Avison from Mary Dale. Rejoicing that Ann's 'affair is so happily concluded' proving God is stronger than Man. It seems that Ann is to marry or has married Richard Terry. Mary Dale is still offering religious advice and she urges Ann to resist all temptations that her new situation may result in, but her previous misgivings over this marriage seem to have vanished. She also thanks Ann for her invitation but says that Hull is too far to visit this winter. 1 item	25 Nov 1767
C DFTF/2/9	Letter to Ann Terry [nee Avison] from Margaret Dale. Giving seasonal religious thoughts and her religious devotion towards preparing for life eternal. As it is the New Year on Sunday "the Society here will join in renewing their Covenant with God". If her sister [Mary Dale] gets married, she will not go to London with her. 1 item	29 Dec 1767

C DFTF/2/10	Letter to Ann Terry from Mary Dale. Mary Dale is to marry Mr. Collinson who has a hat manufactory in Manchester. He is going there at the end of the month and will come to Newcastle to 'carry me off ' She is clearly frightened of the prospect and turning to her religion to help her. Her relatives have checked Mr. Collinson's 'temporal affairs' and approve. She often thinks of Ann's 'present critical situation'. They both seem to dread marriage and the problems it will bring. 1 item	8 Mar 1769
C DFTF/2/11	Letter to Ann Terry from Margaret Dale. Sister Collinson [Mary Dale] is ill. 'but it is ordered by Him who well knoweth...' etc. and other religious sentiments. 1 item	5 Apr 1770
C DFTF/2/11a	Letter to Ann Terry from Mary Dale. Still not sure about marrying Mr. Collinson. Much Christian moralising. No year stated but it follows the line of an earlier letter to Ann Terry about the impending marriage (see ref: C DFTF/2/10) 1 item	4 Apr c.1769
C DFTF/2/12	"Letter to Ann Terry from Margaret Dale. Margaret is going to Harrogate ["Harigate"] to take the waters	4 Apr 1769

Ann[e] Avison married Hull ship-owner Richard Terry in 1767. John Thornton of Clapham, London (1720-1790) was a merchant involved in the Baltic trades and Russia and an early patron of the evangelical movement in Britain. He travelled extensively and spent most of his fortune on promoting the Evangelical movement and buying up parish patronages (advowsons) so that they could install evangelical priests thus contributing to churches in many different parts of the country. The mainstream Church of England was in a parlous state with much corruption and absentee clergymen claiming their salaries. John was also the nephew Godfrey Thornton and William Thornton who were involved in sugar refining in Hull from the late 1720s. They built a huge refinery in Lime Street. At an unknown date they took into partnership Samuel Watson, and the union was cemented by the marriage of John Thornton to Lucy Watson in 1753. Their son, Henry Thornton (1760-1815) became an influential economist, banker, philanthropist and parliamentarian. He was also one of the founders of the Clapham sect of evangelical reformers and a foremost campaigner for the abolition of the slave trade. A close friend and cousin of William Wilberforce, he is credited with being the financial brain behind the many campaigns for social reform and philanthropic causes which the group supported. In 1796 Henry married Marianne Sykes (1765–1815), daughter of Joseph Sykes, a merchant from Hull. They had nine children. More about merchant relationships in Hull can be found in appendix 23 of Gordon Jackson's Hull in the Eighteenth Century: A Study in Economic and Social History.

Hull History Centre: Documents relating to the Terry family, Hull

Avison Terry was responsible for the building of St John's Church, Newland. The Church was consecrated by the Archbishop of York on 23 Sep 1833. The cost of the building was nearly £1,110 and was raised by public subscription. A full description St John's Newland can be found in Sheahan's History of Hull p. 540. Hannah More (1745-1833) was an evangelical philanthropist closely connected to William Wilberforce and his fellow evangelicals in the Clapham Sect. Mary Jarratt was the wife of Rev. Robert Jarratt, Vicar of Wellington, Somerset. Thomas Thompson was a local Methodist preacher and the first Methodist Member of Parliament. Richard Waldo Sibthorpe (1792–1879) was curate to John Scott, incumbent of St. Mary's Church, Hull and in 1819 became the Vicar of Tattersall, Lincolnshire and later at the Chapel at St Pancras, London. Gladstone was a frequent visitor to hear him preach. He defected to the Catholic church and trained for the Priesthood at the age of 50 in 1842. Mary Marsden was the daughter of Rev. Samuel Marsden who was connected to the Elland Society, an evangelical group within the C of E. He was also associated with the Clapham Sect and William Wilberforce. In 1793 he became Assistant Chaplain of New South Wales with his wife Elizabeth (daughter of Thomas Fristan of Hull).

C DFTF/5 Correspondence between Elizabeth Avison and the Terry family
Apr 1827-Feb 1849
1 bundle, 18 items

Elizabeth Avison was the daughter of William Charles Avison, brother of Ann Avison who married Richard Terry. Elizabeth lived in Helsingor, classically known in English as Elsinore, a City in eastern Denmark, with her father who was involved with the shipping industry in the Baltic and worked closely with the Terry company. She never married and died in 1857. A copy of her will is in the National Archives. She left her estate to Avison Terry and his brother John. Most of her letters are written from Helsingor where she was clearly very well connected. Her letters show that Avison Terry helped her to set up a wooden church for Greenlanders in 1827 with 'Pastor Roume.' She also witnessed and described in her letters the Prussian-Danish War 1848-1851 as 'rather alarming.' (Also known as the 'First Schleswig War' or the 'Three Years War'). The war eventually resulted in Danish victory.

Aug 1743-Oct 1812
1 bundle, 32 items

Samuel Thornton (1754-1838) was one of the sons of John Thornton (1720-1790), a leading merchant in the Russian and Baltic trade and a philanthropist who donated much of his wealth to setting up evangelical ministries in various parts of the world. John Thornton married Lucy Watson (1722-1785), daughter of Samuel Watson of Hull. Samuel Thornton was a Member of Parliament for Kingston upon Hull (with William Wilberforce in 1784) from 1784-1806. Robert Thornton (1759-1826) and Henry Thornton (1760-1815) were his brothers, also notable men of the time and also MPs. Henry Thornton married Marianne Sykes (1765-1815), daughter of Joseph Sykes, merchant from Hull. All three Thornton brothers were members of the Clapham Sect and closely associated with their cousin, William Wilberforce's campaign for the abolition of the slave trade. For more information on merchant relationships in Hull please see Appendix 23 in Gordon Jackson's 'Hull in the Eighteenth Century' (Ref:L.9.7).
