

C DIJE

Log book for the brigantine, Jemima

1769-1774

Accession number: 16/41

Historical Background: The Jemima, described as a brigantine, (a form of two masted sailing ship), was a vessel working a regular coasting route between Hull and London, at a period when Hull was beginning to grow as a port.

Custodial history: Passed to the History Centre by Anne Greig, who is a member of a family which owned the Jemima, in November 2016

Description: Ships log book, giving: owners; commanders, captains and crew; voyages with dates; fees, expenses and wages and whether there was a profit or loss on the trip.

Extent: 1 volume

Related material: Additional information regarding the voyages of the Jemima can be found within the muster rolls of the Hull Trinity House, reference C DSTR (1747-1851). The Jemima may also appear in the records of the Hull's Water Bailiffs, reference C WB (1569-1875)

Access conditions: Access will be granted to any accredited reader

C DIJE/1

Log book for the brigantine, Jemima
1 volume

25 Aug 1769-
11 Feb 1774