Historical Background: The Charity Commission was first established under the 1853 Charities Trust Act, and has been modernised throughout the years, with the current organisation set up under the 2006 Charities Act. The Commission was created to approve and regulate charity schemes.

The Hull Trinity House Charity was established by the Corporation of the Hull Trinity House to support needy seafarers and their families. It's origins go back to the late 15th century.

The Sunday School on Beeton Street was erected to serve St. Andrews Church, Southcoates. The school building was lost during World War Two.

St. Philip's was a new parish created in the 1880s. The church was damaged in World War 2 with the parish merging with Christ Church Sculcoates in 1950.

Custodial history: These records were passed to the Hull History Centre by the Charity Commission and constitute public records. They were offered to the Centre under section 3(6) of the Public Records Act. Those of the Sunday School and St. Philip's Mission Room were passed to the centre in May 2014. The Trinity House Charity records were deposited in March 2016.
