Historical Background: A full copy of The History of the Hull Aid in Sickness Trust can be found at C DSS/4/1 as compiled by Dawn Singleton.

Very little is now known of the early history of the charity, but it derives its origin from the exertions of some members of the medical profession in Hull in or about the year 1799 and all services were rendered gratuitously.

In April 1814 The old Hull and Sculcoates Dispensary was officially established and based at 51 High Street at an annual expense of £350.00, supported by subscription and voluntary donations. By 1832 the Dispensary had acquired its premises in St. John's Street and a resident surgeon was installed who devoted the whole of his time to the work of the Institution, a part being spent at the Institution and part in visiting patients. He also had the assistance of two visiting surgeons.

A third visiting surgeon was appointed in 1869 and the resident surgeon remained permanently on-site. In 1886, the Dispensary moved to its new premises at Baker Street Hull, built by public subscription, the old St John's Street building having become too small was sold to the Hull Corporation.

By 1931 there were Dispensary Buildings in West Hull on North Boulevard and also in East Hull on Holderness Road (opposite Dansom Lane), opened to cope with the demand placed upon the institution. Another resident surgeon had been employed and the number of visiting surgeons increased to eleven.

With the inception of the N.H.S. the Dispensary was virtually superseded and the old Dispensary was wound up and reformed into the Hull and Sculcoates Dispensary Aid Trust under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners dated 30th August 1957. Its charitable activities changed from being concerned with direct medical care and instead the Trust gave grants of money to relieve the suffering of those afflicted by illness.

In 1973, the former Hull and Sculcoates Dispensary Aid Trust was officially re-constituted under an order of the Charity Commissioners and became the Hull Aid in Sickness Trust (registered Charity No. 224193).

The Trust is currently [2010] able to make grants from any clear income gained from its portfolio of investments and does not fundraise or gain wealth from any other sources, making the amount of grants made variable and dependant on the returns made from its invested capital.
