

C TCCA Hull Corporation Cattle Plague Committee 1866-1908

Historical Background: Whilst Britain had suffered from Cattle Plague, (also known as Rinderpest) before, the outbreak in 1865 was particularly severe, and it resulted in the Privy Council directing local authorities to establish committees to deal with the issue. With Hull's dock already a major place of import for cattle, the Hull Town Council Property Committee had already been considering how to deal with domestic and overseas cattle, and in early 1866 had set up the Cattle Sub-Committee. By March this had become the Cattle Plague Sub-Committee before becoming a separate committee in it's own right in the April of 1866. The Committee had the power to execute all duties and powers under the following Contagious Diseases (Animals) Acts and any orders of Privy Council. It also had the control of inspectors under the same acts. Despite the official title for the committee focusing on the one disease, it did look at all aspects of contagious diseases in animals. The committee was transferred to the Property Committee in 1899.

Custodial History: Records created as part of the work of the Cattle Plague Committee and routinely transferred from the Town Clerks Department

Description: Committee records; Privy Council and Board of Agriculture orders and circulars; Acts of Parliament; Licences; Reports; Letters and correspondence; Weekly returns; Notices and posters; Resolutions, memorials and petitions.

Extent: 12 boxes

Related Materials: See council minutes in the searchroom and any associated reports at reference C TCR/1. Plans for the cattle areas at the docks in Hull can be found within C DPD/11/3. Records of the Hull and Goole Port Sanitary Authority (C WHG) will also help in understanding the health issues at the port.

Access conditions: Access will be granted to any accredited reader
